Recent Changes in German Political Circles.

Emperor William's Uncertain Temper Causing Considerable Trouble.

Several Persons Killed in a Revolution at Oporto.

Crisis in the Italian Cabinet—Premier Crispien Tenders His Resignation—The Ministry Defeated—Cable Notes.

By Telegram to The Times.

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—[Copyright 1891, by the New York Associated Press.] The causes of the general staff are repeated differences with the Emperor and Chancellor on army questions. His adhesion to the set of ex-Court Chaplain Stoecker has irritated the Emperor greatly also. Minister Maybach has also tendered his resignation. The Emperor's restless nature, spells of irritability and uncertain moods, are due to physical causes, which make him a difficult master to serve. The court physicians have strongly advised him to cease the use of tobacco. The Emperor persists in smoking a lot of cigars daily.

Drs. Hand, Guttman and Lich inform the medical society that an examination of the blood of twenty-eight different patients disproves the theory that Koch's lymph causes the formation of tubercle bacilli in the blood, no bacilli having been discovered in any case.

The semi-official press makes bitter criticisms and suggestions regarding the visit of the Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand to the czar.

Bismarck's organ asserts that the Austrian government aims at an approachment with Russia to the prejudice of Germany. Newspapers generally accuse Bismarck of trying to create distrust of the Triple Alliance in order to produce in international crisis, whereupon he would again lift himself to the position of dictator.

Count Herbert Bismarck is in Rome visiting Crispien. It is surmised he is acting as agent for his father in his projects to maintain personal relations with leading statesmen concerned in the Triple Alliance.

The publication in extent of an address by the rector of the Mechanical Academy, advocating the holding of a World's Exposition at Berlin in 1896, has created the belief that the Emperor favors the project.

The insurgents to the number of 400 assembled at the clock tower this morning and with much cheering paraded the principal streets. They made an attempt to seize the Prefecture of Police and central telegraph office. Their plan, however, was frustrated by the municipal guard. The general in command summoned the local troops, when the few civilians supporting the rebels dispersed. The latter then proceeded to the Hotel del Ville, fortifying the structure to the best of their ability, but lacking ammunition, speedily submitted in response to an ultimatum. Six or seven officers of inferior grade took part in the revolt, which was of a distinctly republican character. The civilian leader in the revolt was a lawyer named Alvaro Velazquez. He formed a republican directorate consisting of Senor Freitas, judge of the high court; Soares, a retired general officer; Prof. Silva and the brother's wife. None of these persons were present, however, when the town hall was captured.

Three soldiers and four civilians, not including women, were killed during the fighting and thirty six soldiers and ten civilians were wounded. Under directions of the authorities the office and printing rooms of all republican journals were raided and all documents found in the places were seized. Every person found on the premises was taken into custody and the buildings placed in charge of the military. All banks and commercial houses in the city have closed their doors.

FIGHTING FOR LIBERTY.

Portuguese Republicans Endeavor to Found a Republic.

OPORTO, Jan. 31.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Three regiments of infantry, comprising a portion of the garrison openly revolted today. The remainder of the garrison, including the municipal guard, remains loyal. The alleged object of the mutineers is to establish a republic. The rebels and loyal troops are, at last accounts, fighting in the streets, and it is said many have been killed on both sides. Citizens are barricading their houses. Troops are being sent from various points to this city.

Later—The revolutionary uprising which began this morning is ended. Shortly after the beginning of the revolt the insurgent troops and a portion of the fiscal guards seized the City Hall and proposed to remain there and then declare a republic. A strong body of loyal troops laid siege to the building, and after a bombardment a spirited charge defeated the insurgents.

The loss on both sides as far as is known was slight. The insurgents will be tried by court martial and, in all probability, the ringleaders will be shot.

Oporto this evening is a city of rejoicing. The storekeepers have thrown down their barricades from the windows and doors and everybody is congratulating everybody else that the insurgent outbreak was not as serious as expected.

WAR IN CHILI.

Balmaceda Consents to Negotiate for Peace.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 31.—[By the Associated Press.] War news continues to filter from Chili into this republic, but it must be admitted that the information received comes in the main from sources favorable to the insurgents and unfavorable to the Chilean government. Valdivia Port, the coral and seaport town of Valdivia, sixteen miles from the mouth of the Calcahu River, is now all blockaded by war vessels of the insurgents. The insurgents' warships are also blockading the island of Ancud, capital of the island of Chiloe. Insurgent marines from the vessel have occupied Ancud. Chiloe Archipelago consists of about sixty small islands with a population of 80,000 souls. The insurgent warship which is anchored at Ancud recently left that port in charge of the marines. She had loaded and steamed away to capture another port, when a ship having government troops on board appeared off Ancud. She hoisted the British flag and tried hard to land the troops she had on board. The insurgents, however, detected the strategy and opened fire upon the government vessel. The latter replied with a rapid fire of guns and small arms, but after a sharp engagement, the government vessel was disabled and had to leave the port of Ancud in the hands of the victorious insurgents.

President Balmaceda is now said to have announced his willingness to negotiate for terms of peace with the rebels, who seem victorious on all sides. One of the stipulations insisted upon by the President, if negotiations proceed, is that the port of Valparaiso is not to be blockaded while the parley continues. The rebels, it is added, insist that President Balmaceda resign. Some compromise favorable to the interests of European merchants and financiers is looked forward to according to the latest advice.

THE GOVERNMENT DEFEATED.

A Political Crisis at Rome—Crispien Will Resign.

ROME, Jan. 31.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] In a debate in the Chamber today on spirit taxes, Prime Minister Crispien urged that the taxes proposed by the government were imperatively necessary to prevent Italy falling again to the servile condition she was in as regards foreign powers in 1874. The conservative members of the Chamber, who were in office in 1874, protested in an uproarious manner, and the present Minister of Public Works left the Treasury bench. The bill was rejected by a large majority, and Crispien announced that he would resign. It is doubtful if he will be able to reconstruct the Cabinet.

Redondo.

RENDONDO, Jan. 31.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] A delightful card party was given yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Redondo Hotel in honor of the Misses Holbertson of New York, who, with their mother, left today for San Francisco, intending to remain there a few days.

Quite a number of children were dancing in the ball-room in the earlier part of last evening, and their skill in the art elicited the attention and praise of a large number of onlookers who were present.

Miss Jennie Fleming, who has been East several months, is now visiting friends at the Redondo for a few days before returning to her home in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Ois Sprague, and Mrs. H. H. Holt of Tacoma, Wash., left today for their Eastern trip, to be gone about two months.

The latest arrivals at the Redondo are: F. G. Fillmore, Terre Haute, Ind.; Gordon Preston, A. G. Guest, Baltimore; Mrs. W. M. Smith and daughter, Mass.; F. W. Prescott, Los Angeles; Fred V. Holman, Portland, Ore.

Western Traffic Association.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—The Commissioners of the Western Traffic Association were today considering a proposition to divide the territory of the Western Passenger Association so as to confine Chairman Finley's jurisdiction to the territory of the Missouri River and to merge that part of it west of the river into the Trans-Missouri Association. At the close of the morning session Chairman Walker said a conclusion had not been reached, but he thought the question would be settled during the afternoon.

Created an Indian Scare.

FORT WORTH (Tex.), Jan. 31.—The city was excited yesterday over a report that the town of Wellington was burned by a thousand Kiowa Indians and thirty people slain. Troops gathered here from neighboring towns and were about to start when word was received that it was a conspiracy on the part of a few men to get people to leave Wellington, when the county seat would be moved to the center of the county. The governor has ordered an investigation.

A Dangerous Calling.

The public has but an inadequate idea of the danger to which the ordinary trainmen are exposed. Accidents to them are occurring every day in the year, and it is only when the results are made known that the real condition of things is seen.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, according to statements made at the recent convention in Los Angeles, now numbers 14,057 members, an increase of 600 during the past year. It was stated, however, that the organization has branches not only in the United States but also in Canada, Ireland and Sweden, so that the actual membership in this country does not appear from the figures above. Sad and impressive evidence of the dangerous nature of the trainmen's occupation is given in the statement that during the year 1875 disability and death claims to the amount of nearly $275,000 had been paid, and that of the total number of claims over 200 resulted from railway accidents, and these 130 deaths were caused by coupling cars.

It is distressing to think of the suffering and death daily occurring, as the result largely of the great variety of couplings in use, and it must be admitted that there is a crying need of a rapid improvement in this matter by the adoption of some uniform style of coupling which will be both efficient in service and safe in handling.—Kansas City Sun.

South Middle's Blue Blooded Bedbugs.

To Yale graduates of all ages now lying the news of a fire in old "South Middle" will be of real interest. This is the oldest of the Yale buildings. The bricks were brought over from England, and it has always been claimed that the bedbugs of the building possessed the insatiable zeal of the transatlantic species. They are possibly descended from those that crossed with the bricks. It had been the tradition at least it was twenty years ago, that each autumn, when the new freshmen class first appeared, the South Middle bedbugs would stand up on their hind legs and look out of the windows upon the campus to determine what was to be the quality of their winter provisions. Some of the best blood in the country courses through the veins of these aristocratic vermin, and there will be general anxiety to know not only how many escaped the devastating element, but also where they went to continue their own labors in that line.—Hartford Courant.

PRODUCING AN OPERA.

MANAGER ARONSON TELLS HOW IT IS DONE AT THE CASINO.

The Preparation Takes Many Weeks—How the Parts Are Cast—How the Chorus Is Divided and Costumed—Plans for Scenery and Music—Many Rehearsals.

To the uninitiated the placing of an opera upon the stage may seem a comparatively trifling matter, but it is really a laborious undertaking, involving months of preparation. As soon as I have decided what my next production is to be my scene painter, stage manager and musical conductor are called into consultation. The painter immediately constructs the models of the scenery called for, while the others and myself begin our consideration of the score. Playing over the music, we decide upon the proper allotment of the principal roles. This gentleman for the tenor, that one for the bass; this lady for the soprano, that one for the contralto, and so on through the minor characters and into the chorus. Instances frequently occur in which it is necessary to employ a double chorus, such as where, without sufficient delay to permit a change of costume, one contingent of young ladies appear in one scene as peasants and in the next as sailors.

Having assigned the characters and selected the chorus, I have the music of the parts photographed and a copy given to each of the sopranos, tenors, contraltos, basses and so on. The drill of these people is continued until the various parts are fairly grounded by the conductor, after which he turns them over to an assistant, who continues to drill until those who have the least sense of time and tune have thoroughly acquired a knowledge of the music.

DRILLING THE CHORUS.

Of course it is desirable that a chorister should be a trained musician to start with; but sometimes a conductor finds it less difficult to teach one who is entirely ignorant of music, from the fact that such a one usually works industriously, learning his task perfectly, and rarely thereafter deviating from a true rendering. The feminine portion of a chorus is mainly selected for the voice and appearance.

The voice is the primary consideration among the masculine members, but we do make a point of assigning the characters of soldiers to men of tall stature, and those of civilians and peasants to persons of ordinary height.

While the chorus is pursuing its labors with the assistant conductor devotes his attention to the scenery, and after each person has had individual rehearsal the duos and trios are brought together and rehearsed until they have mastered everything.

About this period we usually call a rehearsal to decide upon the positions, entrances and exits, arranging what is technically known as the "business" of the opera and forming effective and picturesque groupings of the characters and chorus. When this has been perfected we rehearse the opera as a whole, and by this means the principals learn where their music occurs in the action of the play and the choruses discover where their work fits in.

So we go on until the construction of the opera is completed and all its component parts are dovetailed together, as one may say.

As I consider the orchestra a most important factor of the success of any opera, forming the basis upon which the whole fabric is built, this department demands and receives my particular attention. I have the members of mine brought together about midway in the preparation for a new production.

FINAL REHEARSALS.

While all this has been going on the scene painter has been busy in his department, the property men have been preparing the apparatus, the electricians have devised the mechanical contrivances, and the gas engineer has arranged for the proper distribution of the lights and the colored mediums or glasses by means of which he can produce certain desired effects. The costumers, wig makers and boot makers have taken the measurements of principals and chorus.

A week before the date of a production I order a dress rehearsal, so that each partaker can be individually inspected, and changes that are advisable can be made at once. A good deal of discretion and good judgment is necessary to a manager in distributing the various parts to persons who will effectively fill them. Physical fitness must be considered.

Thus, women of elegance, dignity and repose of manner should be selected to represent court ladies, while arch, piquant little bodies do nicely for waitresses and peasants, and young ladies of not too feminine proportions are given a chance to wear a doublet and hose.

If it can be arranged on the night just previous to a new work being brought out, we give a full dress rehearsal, intending it to be in every department equivalent to a first night's performance, and we exert every effort to enable the artists to handle the machinery on the day of production. Such in brief is the modus operandi of bringing out an opera.—Rudolph Aronson in Kate Field's Washington.

A Famous Duck Hunter.

One famous duck hunter in Havre de Grace is William H. Dobson, who has a record that is unsurpassed in the history of the river. His enthusiastic admirers contend that as a duck shot his equal does not exist, and his reputation is world wide. Mr. Dobson has a record of 530 ducks killed in one day. He performed this feat in 1884, and it has never been equaled. He is a native of Havre de Grace, and is now about 50 years of age. Duck shooting has been his delight since boyhood, and it is said that he will lie in a sink for an entire day without a murmur, with a quick eye and ready hand for each victim that comes within range of his gun. He rarely misses a shot.—Baltimore Sun.

A Popular Cosmos Flower.

The cosmos flower, which has come to be all the rage here this fall, has an interesting history, which Mr. Small, the florist, related. It is indigenous to Mexico, where it grows wild in the fields like the daisy in this climate. Some four years ago a German florist in Hoboken, N. J., propagated some of the plants from imported seeds and introduced the flowers in New York. Then the plant appeared in the Soldiers' home gardens at Hampton, near Fortress Monroe, where it was found that it would bloom as late as January and February, on account of the milder climate. A gentleman near Alexandria, Va., then secured a quantity of the seed and began to grow the plant for the market, meeting with such success that he has now several acres covered with the cosmos blooms, and he ships immense quantities to New York daily.

Mr. Small says that the plant cannot be grown with great success farther north than this city, as it succumbs to the first frost. This is the first year that it has become common, but just now great branches of it adorn the windows of each florist's establishment, and can be bought cheaply in the market or of the boys on the street. The flower makes a pretty interior decoration, or it will keep fresh for four or five days if placed in a vase of water immediately after it is cut. The white blossoms are the handsomest, resembling a narcissus in their white petals and gold hearts, but there are other tints that are highly prized. The cosmos is apt to be as popular as the chrysanthemum, although florists will always prefer the latter.—Washington Post.

The Case Has Gone.

The really high caste London swell has "carried his stick and cast it out." Swagger Englishmen no longer appear in public with canes of any description. The collection of choice silver topped and natural wood weapons they drew mental sustenance from through so many seasons has suffered a temporary diversion from the fashionable toilet. British manhood is unprotected, and goes empty handed on the promenade save for a glove possibly, or in stress of weather a medium sized silk umbrella.

The collapse of the stick is attributable to the wholesale adoption of imitation costly canes by the London clerk and petty tradesman.

"Arry, the haberdasher, greengrocer and draper, might find his way again to the market by carrying blackthorn or a light rattan. To this no objection was raised by the aristocrats, and all would have gone well had not a sharp American flooded the market with cheap, flashy copies of swiftdom's own stick. The result was intolerable, and hence the universal renunciation of canes in upper circles.—Illustrated American.

To Winter in the Arctic.

Three vessels from San Francisco are now in winter quarters at the mouth of the Mackenzie river, within 1,000 miles of the north pole. This is said to be the first time that whaling vessels have voluntarily wintered in this location. The colony comprises nearly seventy men. It will be late next summer before they can be heard from, unless by some chance a trader might find his way that far north by sledges and back again to a British fur trading post. Provisions in the way of fish and game will be procured from the Indians who have villages close by. The vessels are the steamers Grampp and Mary D. Hume and the schooner Nicolene. Alluring stories of howled whales being so thick in the water that you could walk about on their backs as on broken ice led the vessels to their present location.—San Francisco Alta.

Last of the Buffalo.

There is a small herd of buffalo on what is known as the Red desert, not many miles from Laramie, Wyo. A party of hunters recently returned from there and report having seen fifteen. During their trip they captured two griffins, but both of them died. It is said, from the effects of the choking they received. One of them was taken after a chase of two days. Mr. J. C. Robbins was at the head of the party, and his purpose in capturing them alive was to add them to a private collection of the wild animals of the Rocky mountains, which he intends exhibiting at the World's fair at Chicago. He left three hunters in the hills near the desert for the purpose of capturing other animals.—Denver News.

A Queer Duck at Great Duck Island.

On Sept. 12 a colored individual, who gave his name as "Joe" Hopkins, came ashore in a fourteen foot dory on Little Duck Island. Members of the lighthouse department offered to take him to the mainland, but he declined, and since that time has lived on the island. Little Duck is entirely devoid of vegetable growth, and Hopkins has subsisted entirely on mussels. To procure these he has been obliged to wade up to his waist in water. He still refuses to go to the mainland, but desires a new boat. He claims that he is en route for Africa, having started from Nova Scotia.—Cor Boston Globe.

It's a Way Politicians Have.

A lady of this city who has been reading about politics a good deal lately said to her husband the other day: "I suppose it is all right for a prominent public man to be referred to by a nickname, though I think it is rather undignified. But what puzzles me is why everybody should refer to Mr. McKinley as McKinley Hill, instead of Bill McKinley. I suppose, though, it must be in imitation of the cowboy style."—New York Tribune.

Coal Thieves Can a Coal Yard.

Several persons have been arrested at Reading for systematically robbing the coal cars of the Reading railroad. It was developed at the hearing that they scraped the coal from the cars on the sidings at Port Clinton, and virtually supplied and operated a large coal yard from their stealings.—Philadelphia Record.

A Six-year-old Harpist.

Frank Harris Poch, son of John S. Poch, clothing merchant of this city, is 6 years old, beautiful and bright and the pet of Paris. Strange to say, he is a fine harpist. He plays all the popular tunes on a harp, bringing out the notes full and strong and keeping perfect time. He can play any tune he hears whistled, played on the piano or otherwise. His rendition of "Home, Sweet Home," "Cricket on the Hearth," "Patrol Comique" and a score of other pieces has rendered him noted here.—Paris (Mo.) Cor. St. Louis Republic.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

AN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—(Special to THE TIMES.) The market for California oranges was lower this morning, with a weak tendency, as the arrivals are heavy. The prices of the better grades were moderate, and the prices are higher.

There was nothing doing in dried fruit markets, and but little in fruit. The demand for apples is a little better, owing to the lack of navel being well cleaned up. The top quotations for Riverside navels are 10 to 12 cents, and for the same variety the arrivals of bananas expected for some time to come.

There is no heavy market for potatoes, the arrivals are few and the demand extremely light.

The receipts of tomatoes are light and the market is dull.

The wheat market continues steady, but trade is rather quiet. Oats are very dull. Corn is in fair demand, and straw and feed are in demand, as for other mill stuffs, and firmness are dull.

Judgement

should be displayed in buying medicine above all things. In selecting a remedy for any disease, you should be positive that it contains nothing injurious to the health. Many remedies on the market leave the patient in much worse condition, than before taking them.

is purely vegetable, and perfect

harmless; the most delicate child take it with absolute safety. It contains no mercury or minerals of any kind and yet it never fails to cure the eases it is recommended for.

Regular Meeting of the Borough Council.

DETAILS OF THE WORK.

Contract Awarded for the Grading of Grand Avenue—Good Tennis—Personal Points—Batch of Brevities.

Council met yesterday in regular session at 1 o'clock p. m. President Lukens presided, and all the trustees except Mr. Banbury were present.

The clerk read the minutes of the meeting of January 24, which were approved.

City Recorder Rose submitted his first report to the board, showing two cases tried during January. Referred to the Committee on Auditing and Finance.

City Attorney Arthur reported that the case of I. N. Mundell, ex-City Marshal, against the city of Pasadena, has been decided by the Supreme Court in favor of the city, thus sustaining the city's contention and disposing of Mundell's claim.

On the matter of the late increase of fare by the Los Angeles Terminal Company, the City Attorney reported that an examination of the franchise under which the road operates in the city shows that none of its provisions have been violated. The section of the franchise in point reads: "and provided further that the rate of fare for passage on said railroad shall never exceed the price of 35 cents for a round trip between its northern terminus in Pasadena and the business center of Los Angeles, and for a single trip the sum of 20 cents for a single fare in either direction between its terminal depot in Pasadena and Los Angeles."

The attorney stated that it might prove of avail to lodge a formal complaint with the State Railroad Commission and get its opinion on the question. On motion the attorney was instructed to communicate with the commission on the matter.

A letter was read from Mrs. Place, widow of the late City Engineer, thanking the board for the tribute they had paid her husband.

The bids for grading Grand avenue were opened. Charles Murrish agreed to do the work for 50 cents a lineal foot, the contractor to dispose of the surplus dirt as he sees fit, and provided the water-pipes are laid sufficiently low as not to interfere with the grading. F. W. Chase of Los Angeles agreed to do the work at 38 cents a lineal foot, he to have all surplus material.

Mr. Chase was awarded the contract.

The sum of $50 was transferred from the general fund to the library sinking fund, and $1000 was transferred from the sewer fund to the general fund. The sum of $2500 was transferred from the general fund to the fire and sewer sinking fund, and $625 from the library to the fire and sewer sinking fund.

On motion the President and clerk were directed to draw warrants in favor of the proper parties for the payment of all principal and interest on municipal improvement and library improvement bonds that fall due tomorrow.

GOOD TENNIS.

The Over Popular Game as It Should Be Played.

An old-time crowd full of old-time enthusiasm assembled yesterday at the tennis grounds on Walnut street and witnessed some of the most brilliant playing that has ever taken place in the court.

It was a special occasion. Robert Carter, the champion of this entire section, was there with his sister, who has never met a player of her sex she could not beat, and Kenneth Carter, who ranks high above the average player. Mr. Runyon, the new arrival from New York, who has won a great amount of deserved praise for the brilliant game he puts up, was on hand; so also Mr. and Miss Halstead, the champions of the Alhambra Club who captured several prizes at the recent Raymond tournament, and the best of the local players, including Messrs. Lindsay and May, and Misses English and Shoemaker. Lunch was served at 1 o'clock by Mrs. Winslow and Miss Lowe. The attendance in the afternoon was unusually large.

The scores of most of the contests follow. With such an aggregation of talent poor playing was impossible and it would be useless to attempt to describe the almost uniform brilliancy of the matches. Interest naturally centered in the match between R. Carter and Runyon. Carter won, but his opponent did excellent work, and made the contest a splendid one from start to finish. Miss Carter, owing to illness, was defeated by Miss Shoemaker. R. Carter and Miss Carter beat R. Carter and Miss Shoemaker, 6-5; the same team then beat R. Carter and Miss English, 6-3. R. Carter and partner beat K. Carter and partner, 6-3. Messrs. Runyon and K. Carter beat R. Carter and Lindsay, 6-3; and in turn were defeated by them, 6-6. Misses English and Carter beat Misses Shoemaker and Halstead, 6-0; R. Carter beat Runyon, 6-3. A match was also played between Mr. May and Miss Carter and Mr. and Miss Halstead. The third set in the men's doubles was won by R. Carter and Lindsay over K. Carter and Runyon.

Church Music. The following numbers will be rendered today on the Congregational Church organ by Harry Fletcher:

MORNING SERVICE. Prelude—"Psalms" (Chorus) from Tauscher (Wagner); Adagio No. 3 (Volkmann); response, "Baptism" ("Hymn of Nuns") (Weley).

Postlude—Variations on Adeste Fideles (Thayer).

EVENING SERVICE. Prelude—Sonata without words (Mendelssohn) (response) (Thayer). Postlude—Offertory (St. Wely).

BREVITIES.

The rain is upon us. The delinquent tax list is much smaller than that of last year. The mountain tops were concealed by clouds yesterday. A sure sign of rain. Tomorrow THE TIMES' subscribers can read the delinquent tax list of the county.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Williams entertained the U. K. K. Club Friday evening at their residence on the Highlands.

Rev. Dr. Conger reports the meetings at Santa Paula, which he has been attending the past week, very satisfactory. Twenty-eight persons were received into the church, and others will join today.

Pasadena's fruit growers fortunately manifest very little interest in the coming Citrus Fair.

Miss Bacon was prevented by illness from participating in the concert at the Raymond Friday evening.

The Universalist Church pulpit will be filled this morning and evening by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Conger. The sermon in the morning will be especially for young ladies.

Charlotte Perkins Stetson will lecture before the Nationalist Club at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Universalist Church. Subject: "What Life Might Be." The public is invited.

Woodworth & Mariner have traded Stinson Bros' brick block in Los Angeles to Charles W. Gleason of Boston, for a consideration of $35,000.

James W. Wood of Monroe street, Chicago, died on Friday at his temporary residence in this city, in the 19th year of his age. Funeral services will be held at Reynolds Bros' parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains will be taken to Chicago for interment.

The Young Men's Christian Association will hold their gospel and song service this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Strong's Hall. Music will be furnished by the orchestra. A special invitation is extended to young men to be present. The meeting will be led by Prof. Will S. Monroe. The song service will be led by R. C. Sargent.

Luther Benson, the great temperance lecturer, speaks tonight at the Tabernacle. He will doubtless be greeted by a large audience.

Mrs. C. W. Saunders, daughter Dorothy and maid of Seattle arrived in Pasadena Friday evening and will spend the winter at Lester Cottage.

A rehearsal was held yesterday afternoon at the Universalist Church for the concert to be given next Saturday for the benefit of the organ fund of All Saints' Church.

Company B had a drill and guard mount last night. The new armory is about ready for occupancy.

The Baldwin children netted a satisfactory profit at their entertainment in Odd Fellows' Hall Friday night.

The Catholic Fair.

The fair given by the Catholic Parish of this place will open in Williams' Hall on Tuesday. That evening Miss Margaret Cowper, a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, will sing, and five young ladies will present the farce, "A Slight Mistake." Wednesday evening Bro. Gardner of the Los Angeles Cathedral will direct a concert, in which about a dozen vocalists will participate. The fair will continue until Saturday night. There will be numerous other attractions.

A Man of Many Wounds.

Henry Gibbs, who was shot through the body Sunday night, is again able to be out. This man is a walking bullet pouch. He is a man 51 years old, and was born in Clay county, Kentucky.

Two years ago he moved to Jellico, and since his residence there he has become involved in many difficulties.

The first was with Thomas Cotton, who shot him in the left ankle, the ball lodging in the joint. The second time he was shot by Nathan Collins, the ball taking effect in his left knee joint, and remaining there.

The third affray originated at Cumberland Gap, when he was ambushed by seven men. Colan Turner shot Gibbs in the right side with two loads of buckshot and birdshot. Over 200 shot have been picked from his side and shoulder.

At the same time Al Cole shot him with a 44-calibre in the right breast, the ball coming out under the shoulder blade.

Gibbs got three of his wounds in this battle—the fourth, fifth and sixth times by Andy Griewold, one ball taking effect in the right breast, another through the right shoulder, and the third entering his left thigh, and ranging downward, lodging in the fleshy part of the leg.

The sixth time was Sunday night, in a difficulty with Harry Broughton, who shot him through the body, the ball entering on the left side, and was cut from under the skin on the right side. This laid him up for seven days.

He has been cut fifteen times, and carries the scars to prove his assertion. He does not seem any the worse for his wounds, and talks in a joking manner about his many shooting and cutting affairs.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Vicissitudes of a Spendthrift.

Twenty years ago William Dodsforth, a wealthy citizen of Ohio, married a Hamilton, O. heiress, and arranged to spend the honeymoon in the east. Instead of taking a train the happy groom arranged for relays of coaches between Hamilton and the City of Brotherly Love. The affair was talked of all over the country, and reports of the novel trip published in the newspapers of this country and Europe. The groom created a furor by spending money lavishly, and lighting $1 cigars with $5 and $10 bills.

The other morning the happy groom of twenty years ago was a prisoner on the yellow bench in the police court on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was fined $5 and costs, and for want of one of the bills with which he formerly lighted his cigars he was sent to the workhouse.—Cincinnati Cor. Chattanooga Times.

Wild Flowers in the Fall.

What are our very earliest wild flowers, and how early have we a right to expect spring flowers? Perhaps the reader thinks this is not a timely question; but it is, because the flowers are just coming into blossom now! Mr. Hitchings, one of our well known botanists, once favored The Listener with some hepaticas which he gathered in November, and he writes that he has found some in October, too, blooming in the Middlesex Fells. From this time on he finds them blooming in the fells every month until May; his latest date is May 7.

He tells also of trailing arbutus gathered at this time of year in Williams-town. Both are spring flowers; and if they bloom in November and December, then November and December are counted among the spring months—by the hepaticas and the arbutus. The Listener may add to the list of these early blooming spring flowers his Canada violets, which have been in bloom within a week. But for that matter, these delicious little violets have been blooming all summer and fall.—Listener in Boston Transcript.

Huge Moose Antlers.

The largest pair of moose antlers ever seen in this city, if not in the state, were received by Thomas F. Allen from Andover, N. B., a place beyond Tobique. They have twenty-one prongs and measure in the widest spread 4 feet 8 inches, being much larger than those of the famous Jumbo taken in Franklin county two or three years ago, and mounted by S. L. Crosby, who will mount these—Bangor Whig.

CONSUMPTION.

—CAN BE CURED—

This is being verified every week by those who use the AERIAN SYSTEM of practice, consisting of Moderate Inhalations and Compound Oxygen, as prescribed by M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D., M. C. P. S. O.

137 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.

This is the system of practice which is now attracting the attention of the best physicians throughout every country in the civilized world, and truly wonderful are the results obtained after all other means have failed in accomplishing any good whatever.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold. Indeed, he declares he is actually free from one cold before he takes another; and he is always exceedingly careful. It is a mistake to suppose that he has the cold always seems to settle into his head or throat.

At times many of the symptoms of Catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is at times free from the disease, but it is not so. The disease is not cured, but it is only hidden, and it is only waiting for an opportunity to reappear, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease it is only changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, and at times occurs, a sensation of dryness sometimes felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as, for instance, a hair, obstructed the throat; these become a source of anxiety and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, harsh cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was no room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur, and the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its work. Up to this point the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may not be aware of it, but it is only waiting for an opportunity to reappear, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease it is only changed in its character and has extended to the throat. # THE CITRUS FAIR.

Favorable Reports from All Over the District.

ORANGE-GROWERS AROUSED.

Good-natured Rivalry Among the Various Sections—The Contest for the Special Premiums.

The arrangements for the Citrus Fair are progressing satisfactorily, and the various sections are preparing to exhibit their best specimens of the fruit. The contest for the special premiums is expected to be very interesting.

A county meeting was held at San Bernardino on Friday, and an organization effected and committees appointed. These are going to work actively, and state that the Citrus Fair is intended not only to exhibit the best specimens of the fruit, but also to promote the interests of the citrus industry.

Invitations are being sent out to all the important organizations in the State, and many of them have already signified their intention of attending, some of them in a body.

The indications are that most of the Legislature will come down from Sacramento on some one of the days.

The competition for the premiums for artistic display promises to be quite exciting. Some of the localities are offering prizes for the best design, and are determined to attract attention to their sections of the country that way.

The competition for the $25 prize for the best design for decorating the Pavilion, which must be in on Wednesday, is giving the artistically inclined something to think about, and it will be the fault of the designers if the Pavilion does not present a more attractive general appearance than it has ever done.

A meeting of the orange-growers will be held at Pomona on Tuesday, to take action in relation to the fair, and it is expected that Pomona will give Riverside a hard fight for the title of premier. Riverside is earnestly in the field, and with the $2000 Orange county is going to spend on her exhibit, she will come very near carrying off the prize.

San Gabriel will place a handsome exhibit in the fair in shape of the Old Mission built of oranges.

W. H. Cook and J. W. Harvey have charge of the Monrovia exhibit, and say they will astonish some of the older orange localities with their display.

A search through ancient directories of the city of London made by Mr. Minthorn at the last London exposition, revealed the fact that this jeweler was in business on Fleet street between the years 1688 and 1689. This enormous timepiece was once worn within the buckle of the celebrated Mohawk war chief, Joseph Brant, whose Indian name was Shagoyandane, and regarding whose accomplishments as a warrior, chief and courtier many legends are related in western New York and Canada. His influence during the latter half of the last century is unrepresented in the annals of the Indian race. —Jeweler's Weekly.

President Lincoln's Habits.

The president rose early, as his sleep was light and capricious. In the summer, when he lived at the Soldiers' home, he would take his frugal breakfast and ride into town in time to be at his desk at 8 o'clock. He began to receive visitors nominally at 10 o'clock, but long before that hour struck the doors were besieged by anxious crowds, through whom the people of importance, senators and members of Congress, bowed their way after the fashion which still survives. On days when the cabinet met, Tuesdays and Fridays, the hour of noon closed the interviews of the morning. On other days it was the president's custom at about that hour to order the doors to be opened and all who were waiting to be admitted.

At luncheon time he had literally to run the gauntlet through the crowds who filled the corridors between his office and the rooms at the west end of the house occupied by the family. The afternoon wore away in much the same manner as the morning; late in the day he usually drove out for an hour's airing; at 6 o'clock he dined.

He was one of the most abstemious of men; the pleasures of the table had few attractions for him. His breakfast was an egg and a cup of coffee; at luncheon he rarely took more than a biscuit and a glass of milk. A plate of fruit in his season; at dinner he ate sparingly of one or two courses. He drank little or no wine; not that he remained always on principle a total abstainer, as he was a part of his early life in the fervor of the "Washingtonian" reform, but he never cared for wine or liquors of any sort and never used tobacco. —Col. John Hay in Century.

Snyder and the Wild Cat.

Chauncey Snyder, who resides upon the road leading to the Overlook mountain, for some time past has missed sheep from his flock, and after a light snow which had fallen he saw the tracks of a huge wild cat in the field. By the light of the new moon he lay in wait for the lover of lamb and mutton should he make another nocturnal visit. He saw his faithful dog with him, and it was near midnight before the sheep destroyer put in an appearance.

He made straight for a lamb, and Snyder hid his dog to "go for him." Jack, a huge bulldog, with a bound left his master, and soon the cat and dog were in a deadly conflict. The wild cat was a monster, with claws full an inch in length and as sharp as needles, and when Snyder heard the combatants the snow was crimsoned with blood. The cat had a decided advantage over the dog when Snyder came to the rescue, but he dared not shoot for fear of killing the faithful animal.

He raised his gun and brought it down with full force upon the wild cat's skull. The animal reeled and seemed staggered, but it was for a moment only. With glaring eyes it sprang upon Snyder's shoulders and sent its teeth deep into the flesh. Jack was up in time and grappled with the brute, and then a rough and tumble fight in which all three engaged. Snyder rained blow after blow upon the cat's head with his gun barrel until the ferocious beast lay quivering in death.

Both Snyder and his dog had paid dearly for their victory. The former had a deep wound in his shoulder while the latter's flesh was lacerated and torn, and the blood ebbed from a dozen gaping wounds. The animal weighed thirty-four pounds and is the largest of its species ever killed in the Catalis. —Kingston Argus.

From Under the Mistletoe.

Christmas romping has never gone out of vogue, and as it is, after all, an innocent romp, who would want it? No southern girl would do like the elderly English maiden who wore a wreath of mistletoe on her head, thus inviting a continued series of kisses, but each one is considerably enough to never get under the mistletoe unless her very own sweetheart is near her. The mistletoe is removed after Christmas night, for it represents a frolic only kept up while everybody is present.

The great delight of the establishment is always to get grandpa or grandmamma under the mistletoe bough, and then to let a procession be formed, each member of which impresses a kiss on the dear faces. These kisses are good, sweet, pure ones, and there is no girl who should be advised against being in the room where the mistletoe is. It is true that Tom may seize a kiss if you happen for a minute to be under the waxy looking berries; it is true that you may incite your mother to kiss Tom, as he stands there inviting tribute from you, but this is all honest play to which none but prudes could object.

The Belle.

As she tripped along the street,
With her cheeks all aglow,
She was the picture of youth and grace,
No matter where you go.

Her face is always smiling,
Each movement shows a wealth
Of beauty most beguiling,
Indicative of perfect health.

Her friends are numbered by the score,
She has wondrous golden hair;
In wealth she has a million means,
Then wealthy John H. Blair.

Now this maiden known both near and far,
Whom no one can ever reach,
Can thank her very "lucky star"
For the lesson she can teach.

For all her fortunes, wondrous good,
To account for there is but one reason:
Quaker Oats is always her food
In every kind of season.
